

Spiritual, Moral, Social & Cultural Development (SMSC) Policy

Issued date: January 2015

Review date: January 2017

“Respect the unexpected. Think through your risks.”

Spiritual, Moral, Social & Cultural Development (SMSC) Policy

Statement of

Policy:

RISE Education is committed to offering students the opportunities to:

- identify, reflect on and explore experiences and distinguish between right and wrong
- discuss moral issues develop and talk about their own attitudes and values
- take responsibility for their own decisions
- develop an understanding of social responsibilities and citizenship
- celebrate a diversity of cultures

RISE Education aims to create an ethos that fosters the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of all students.

SMSC is developed through the whole curriculum:

- health and social care,
- curriculum extra activities,
- assemblies,
- RISE Education Code of Conduct and
- Behaviour Policy.

Spiritual

Development

RISE Education supports the process of acquiring positive personal beliefs and values as:

- an active basis for personal and social behaviour
- for the consideration of the meaning and purpose of human existence
- the seeking of answers to questions about the universe

The primary aim is to underline the spiritual concerns of humanity (e.g. matters of life and death, the purpose of life, choices in life, etc.), and give them the opportunity to reflect on pertinent moral and spiritual themes. Spiritual development is experienced largely through Health and Social Care . All student have health and social care lessons on a weekly basis until the end of Year 11, culminating in an accredited qualification.

These lessons contributes to the moral and social development of our young people, developing consideration for others, an appreciation of human rights and responsibilities and a concern for justice in society. Also, it develops in students respect for the practices of different religious faiths and a sympathetic understanding of their underlying values and concerns. It should develop tolerance for the variety of beliefs and the customs of the citizens of our world.

It is expected that wider opportunities exist in RISE Education's curriculum that enable students by discussion to think about religion and appreciate the variety of faiths by: using art, drama, music, languages, science and technology as well as humanities to heighten awareness of the spiritual dimension in our lives creating tasks which question students and enable them to work out their own position on issues, both moral and religious moral development

Moral Development

:

Encourages students to develop fundamental precepts about behaviour and the reasons for behaviour helps students to develop the skills and confidence to make decisions ,gives students the confidence to listen to and respect the thinking of answers to questions about the universe. RISE Education has agreed Core Values which permeate the life of RISE Education in all experiences and interactions.

The aims of curriculum work can be summarised as follows:

- to stimulate students into giving expression to their own moral beliefs and understanding
- to challenge them into trying to justify their beliefs and understanding with reasons
- to enable them to share with others their reflections, listen to others and struggle to resolve their disagreements

- to help them apply their growing moral competence in the context of vocational experience and the workplace
- to facilitate the extending and generating of their moral reflections beyond their own immediate experience to national and international issues

The role of the teacher has the following elements:

- being alert to the moral dimensions of issues which are raised to students, or by the syllabus of the world of work, context and having the confidence to explore them
- the creation of materials and the setting up of activities and tasks for students, either alone or in groups
- putting questions into the discussion which challenge the positions students take and help them to think more deeply

Key moral issues at RISE Education are:

- self-respect and integrity making right choices
- doing the right thing managing conflict
- telling the truth importance of trust and confidentiality
- friendship loyalty to particular groups
- personal judgement laws and their justification, civil rights and duties
- the ethic of work human rights
- our relation to the non-human world

Social Development

Through social development students acquire the skills and personal qualities necessary for individuals to live and function effectively in society. This requires an understanding of society in all aspects, its structures and principles and life as a citizen, parent or worker in a community. Students are encouraged to identify themselves as members of the community. This involves an increasing awareness of their own identity as individuals and a need to work with the feelings and wishes of others. Both the formal curriculum and extra-curricular activities promote team work and cooperation. The development of social skills is monitored both formally in assessments, and informally, through pastoral interactions. Supportive measures are available where they may be needed.

There is a planned programme of personal social, and citizenship education, which aims to develop student awareness of moral issues as well as fostering a sense of responsibility and community values. All students are mentored regularly, both individually as well as in groups, in order that their full potential is reached.

Records are kept of positive achievement, behaviour and effort. Concerns are regularly monitored and prompt action is taken when required.

Codes of conduct and expected standards of behaviour are discussed with students by the learning mentors and teaching staff, and if necessary, other senior staff. Individuals are encouraged to participate in enrichment and extension activities outside of normal school timetable. Effective communications are maintained between RISE Education and parents to ensure students maximise their potential. Formal parental contact is made during induction, interim and full reports, parents' evenings, and information evenings. A lot more contact is made through telephone calls, emails and ad hoc meetings in school with individual members of staff. In any aspect of the curriculum, external speakers are used to expose the students to a variety of viewpoints and opinions. The emphasis is to allow students to take responsibility for their own actions and provide them with a solid base of information on which to build the kind of self-confidence and self-control expected from our students.

Cultural Development

Through cultural development students gain an understanding of those beliefs, values, customs, knowledge and skills that bond together to form cultures. Cultural Development is closely related to, and integrates, certain aspects of spiritual, moral and social development. RISE Education reinforces the values and customs of society as a whole and celebrates diversity and multi-culturalism. The cultural influences of home, community and religion are explored in order to extend the students' awareness and breadth of understanding. This is achieved through the formal curriculum, through extra-curricular activities and the value placed overtly on the students' own cultural interests and achievements and the way in which they enrich their experiences of all aspects of culture. RISE Education seeks to provide an education, which not only develops and strengthens students' current awareness, but also allows them to develop new cultural insights by:

- avoiding cultural bias
- promoting an appreciation of cultural diversity

Students should be able to:

- know about their own culture and society and value their own cultural identity
- be aware of, and celebrate, cultural diversity
- understand the interdependence of groups within society
- know about societies and cultures other than their own
- be aware of the principal ways in which different people interpret the world
- Cultural Developments within the curriculum

RISE Education seeks to enhance the cultural development of students by way of:

- the formal curriculum
- extra-curricular activities
- incorporating students own home influences into discussions

Ofsted 2012 framework

definition

For of a brief understanding of SMSC, the description given in the current Ofsted framework is included:

"How well the school promotes all pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development by providing positive experiences through planned and coherent opportunities in the curriculum and through interactions with teachers, other adults and the local community as shown by pupils:

- being reflective about beliefs, values and more profound aspects of human experience use their imagination and creativity, and develop curiosity in their learning
- developing and applying an understanding of right and wrong in their school life and life outside school
- taking part in a range of activities requiring social skills
- developing awareness of, and respect towards, diversity in relation to, for example, gender, race, religion and belief, culture, sexual orientation, and disability
- gaining a well-informed understanding of the options and challenges facing them as they move through the school and on to the next stage of their education and training overcoming barriers to their learning
- responding positively to a range of artistic, sporting and other cultural opportunities, provided by the school, including, for example developing an appreciation of theatre, music and literature

- developing the skills and attitudes to enable them to participate fully and positively in democratic, modern Britain
- understanding and appreciating the range of different cultures within school and further afield as an essential element of their preparation for life.

Issued date: January 2015

Review date: January 2017

